Decree 28 has removed the regulation on penalizing companies for their failure to notify the expiration date of labor contracts, and understandably, the employer is no longer bound to notify the employee of the expiration date. Therefore, the parties involved in the labor contract in this case must pay attention and proactively plan to negotiate with the company to extend the contract or continue to enter into a new contract in accordance with the laws, employers and employees need to properly exercise their rights and obligations in case of the labor contract expiry.

The said penalties applied to employers who are individuals. For employers as organizations, the penalty level is doubled. Therefore, employers need to pay attention to comply with the law in the process of signing labour contracts, employing laborers etc. ... to limit the risks and liabilities that may affect business activities.

The Decree takes effect from April 15, 2020 and will replace Decree No. 95/2013 / ND-CP of August 22, 2013 and Decree No. 88/2015/ND-CP of October 7, 2015.

NOVELTIES ON LICENSE FEES

GLOBAL VIETNAM
LAWYERS

[Legal Newsletter]

On 24 February, 2020, the Government issued Decree 22/2020/ND-CP ("Decree 22/2020") amending and supplementing Decree 139/2016 regulating license fees. Accordingly, Decree 22/2020 presents many new key points directly related to the payment of license fees applicable to entities regulated by Decree 139/2016 as follows:

1. Adding 3 cases entitled to license fee exemption

Providing license fee exemption in the first year of establishment, production or business activities (from January 1 to December 31) for:

- Newly established organizations (granted new tax codes, new enterprise identification numbers);
- Households, individuals and groups of individuals that first engage in production and business activities;
- Small and medium-sized enterprises converted from household businesses (defined in the Law on Support for Small and Medium-sized Enterprises) are exempted from license fee for 03 years from the date of being granted the first business registration certificate;
- Public high school and public preschool.

The exemption of license fee reduces costs and help enterprises save time carrying out procedures. Accordingly, during the exemption of license fee, if the aforesaid organizations, households, individuals, groups of individuals, small and medium-sized enterprises establish branches, representative offices and business locations, these will also be exempted from license fees.

2. Supplementing the provision on the time-limit for paying license fees

According to the new Decree, the time-limit for paying license fees will stay the same (no later than January 30). However, due to the addition of subjects eligible for fee exemption, the time-limit for fee payment with respect to these subjects is also re-prescribed. Namely:

- For small and medium-sized enterprises converted from household businesses (including branches, representative offices, business locations), they will pay license fees after the period of exemption (the fourth year from establishment) as follows:
  - If the license fee exemption period expires within the first 6 months of the year, the deadline for paying license fees is July 30 of the expiry year;
  - If the license fee exemption period ends within the last 6 months of the year, the deadline for paying license fees is 30 January of the year immediately following the expiry year.
- For household businesses, individuals or groups of production and business individuals that have been dissolved, and return to production and business activities, paying license fees is as follows:
  - In case of commencing operations in the first 6 months of the year, the deadline for paying license fees is 30 July of the year of operation.
  - In case of commencing operations within the last 6 months of the year, the deadline for paying license fees is 30 January of the year immediately following the year of operation.

3. Adjustment of license fee rates for small and medium-sized enterprises

Because small and medium-sized enterprises converted from household businesses are exempted from license fees for a period of 03 years, license fees may only be paid by  $\frac{1}{2}$  (half) of the prescribed level, specifically for small and medium-sized enterprises converted from household businesses (including branches, representative offices, business locations) when the fee exemption period is expired if:

- Being expired within the first 6 months of the year to pay license fees for the whole year
- Being expired within the last 6 months of the year to pay 50% of the license fee for the whole year

4. There is no fee payment in case of production and business suspension

In case an operating fee payer notifies in writing the immediate tax management authority of its suspension of production and business in the calendar year, the license fees for the year of suspension are not required if the following 2 conditions are satisfied:

- Sending the tax authority a written request for temporary cessation of production and business activities before January 30.
- Not paying license fees of the year of suspending production and business activities.

5. Cases for non-declaration of license fees

Decree 22/2020 stipulates that household businesses, individuals and groups of individuals paying taxes by the presumption method do not have to declare license fee.

Accordingly, the tax authorities will rely on tax returns, tax database to determine business revenue as a basis for calculating payable license fees. This is one of the remarkable provisions of Decree 22/2020, which enables household businesses, individuals and groups of business individuals paying taxes by the presumption method to avoid some procedures and save time.

Note: For the remaining organizations and individuals engaged in production and business activities, business license fee must be declared according to regulations.

Although the effective Decree 22/2020 may affect the state budget revenue from the exemption of license fee, in another aspect, it provides positive support for businesses and people in reducing input costs; ensuring the rationality, feasibility, and facilitating practical implementation and application. In addition, it also helps to improve the ranking of business start-up index; enhance positions in the international rankings on business environment, competitiveness and contribute to the rapid increase in the number of newly established enterprises.

Decree 22/2020/ND-CP takes effect from 25 February, 2020.

EXPECTED INCREASE IN FAMILY
CIRCUMSTANCE DEDUCTIONS UP TO
VND 11 MILLION/MONTHGLOBAL VIETNAM
LAWYERS

[Legal Newsletter]

From 2020, the deduction level for taxpayers who gain income from wages and salaries is expected to increase up to VND 11 million/month, for dependents 4.4 VND million/month instead of VND 9 million and VND 3.6 million respectively for the time being.

Recently, the Ministry of Finance has said that it sent a dispatch to consult with ministries, branches, localities and organizations and individuals about the draft resolution of the National Assembly Standing Committee on adjusting the family circumstance deductions of personal income tax.

Accordingly, pursuant to Article 1.4 of Law No. 26/2012/QH13 stipulating that “In case the consumer price index (CPI) fluctuates by more than 20% compared to the time when the law takes effect or the time of adjusting the latest family circumstance deduction level, the Government will submit the National Assembly Standing Committee for adjustment of the family circumstance deduction levels prescribed in this Article in alignment with price fluctuation to apply to the next taxation period”.

According to the Ministry of Finance, the figures provided by the General Statistics Office, the CPI at the end of December 2019 compared to 01 July , 2013 increased by 23.2%.

Pursuant to the said provisions, the Ministry of Finance deems it necessary to consider adjustment of the family circumstance deduction levels of personal income tax. Therefore, the Ministry of Finance has consulted extensively with the ministries and branches to submit the Government a draft resolution on adjusting the family circumstance deduction levels of personal income tax.

For the taxation period 2020, the expected deduction level for taxpayers themselves increases from VND 9 million/ month to VND 11 million/month. And the deduction for each dependent from VND 3.6 million/month to VND 4.4 million/month. With the adjustment of the family circumstance deduction levels as aforesaid, if applied, this will contribute to relieving taxpayers of difficulties amid price and inflation increase compared to 2013. Tax payables will be reduced for all taxpayers.

With this provision, it can be seen that the Labour Code 2019, which came into effect on 01 January, 2021, supplemented the probationary period for employees holding managerial positions (Labour Code 2012 does not address this issue).

It is worth mentioning that the probationary period of this job reaches up to 06 months, much longer than other jobs. Therefore, enterprises as well as employees should pay attention when the official Code is applied.

Enterprises must notify the probationary results

To ensure the objectivity, fairness as well as protect the rights of employees, Article 27 of the new Labour Code has clearly specified the responsibilities of enterprises when the probationary period is over. At the end of the probationary period, the employer must notify the employee of the probation result.

If the probationary job meets the requirements, the employer will continue to perform the assigned labour contract if there is an probationary agreement therein or a labour contract must be entered into if a probationary contract is previously entered into.

If the probationary test is unsatisfactory, the employment contract or the probationary contract will be terminated.

Regarding the right to cancel the probationary agreement, at present, the Labour Code 2019 allows both employees and employers to cancel the signed probationary contract or labour contract without notice and without any compensation.
